

DISMANTLING A CITY: San Francisco to Suspend all Cops, Firefighters who Refuse covid Vaccines

Description

USA: They'll be living in a gangsters Paradise...

The far-left cesspool of San Francisco has decided to suspend nearly two dozen employees who work at the local police, fire and sheriff's departments for refusing to disclose their Wuhan coronavirus (Covid-19) "vaccination" status.

According to reports, hundreds of other employees from additional departments are also slated to be temporarily axed after the city sent out notifications warning that the targets in question had failed to meet an August 12 disclosure deadline.

The city is recommending that all targeted employees be suspended for 10 days unpaid. If enacted, 11 police department employees, seven fire department employees and two sheriff's department employees would be affected.

"The health and well being of city employees and the public we serve are top priorities during our emergency response to COVID-19," the letter from the city reads.

"Your failure to comply with the vaccination status reporting requirement endangers the health and safety of the city's workforce and the public we serve."

The city claims that a "surge" in new cases of the Fauci Flu, which is being driven by the vaccinated, necessitates that strict action be taken to try to force everyone who has not yet been jabbed to roll up their sleeves in compliance.

The so-called "delta" variant, a direct product of the injections, is said to be spreading like wildfire in San Francisco, though the city is blaming the "unvaccinated" for its spread.

The truth is, the injections are what is driving the spread of the delta variant, but of course this is too politically incorrect to admit. Thus, leftists are blaming the non-jabbed for spreading a disease they do not have to people who should have been protected by their injections but are not.

San Francisco threatens to permanently fire vaccine refusers who fail to file proper exemptions

The first large city in the country to issue such a mandate, San Francisco had ordered all municipal employees to get injected immediately or else face punishment.

All city employees were given until August 12 to either show proof of injection or present a valid religious or medical exemption. Those who did not are now being threatened with temporary removal from their job duties.

Those without valid exemptions are being given 10 weeks following the FDA's full approval to get injected. Those who do not obey could, and likely will, be permanently removed from their positions after the 10 weeks has elapsed.

As far as we know, none of the “anti-fascists” (Antifa) have shown up in San Francisco to protest this blatant act of medical fascism and medical terrorism by the city's corrupt leadership.

Meanwhile, some residents of San Francisco are wondering what will become of their city once a chunk of the police and firefighting force are removed – as if the Bay Area is not already plagued by enough rampant lawlessness to last a lifetime.
