

Former portfolio manager at BlackRock, Dowd has gone public with his assessments...

Description

USA: You seem to be saying that 2022 or 2023 is the year for the financial reset; and there will be much chaos and many riots. "Turbulence" would be a vast understatement.

So I'd like to see, in writing, the details on how you think this is going to play out.

For example, do you believe new sweeping lockdowns—blamed on "COVID"—will actually keep people in their homes and off the streets rioting—as they discover their savings and investments have been wiped out?

Questions for former portfolio manager at BlackRock, the investment management company; Dowd has gone public with his assessments...

Edward,

After listening to a recent interview you did, I have questions. I'm taking your remarks quite seriously, because you're a financial insider.

You appear to be saying government debt has finally, after decades, reached an end point. Governments can no longer handle the interest payments. COVID will be their cover story. They will say, "Because of the extraordinary outlays of money to support companies and individuals during the pandemic crisis and the necessary lockdowns, we've gone into a very deep hole. Therefore, we have to rework the whole financial system."

Correct?

But this con will not be played out smoothly. People's savings and investments will be wiped out. Once the news is leaked confirming governments are broke, all trading markets will crash. Government pension funds—gone.

Is this the scenario you envision?

What about individual bank accounts? Will they survive? If not, why not?

Up to now, governments have invented money out of thin air. Why can't they keep printing it and further rig the system by declaring (with their creditors) that interest payments on government debt will be lowered and extended further into the future?

I fully understand the points you're making about Pfizer and Moderna possibly going down, as Enron did. They committed, in collusion with the FDA, massive fraud vis-à-vis their vaccine clinical trials. Their safety data were lies.

I also can see, as you predict, a war between insurance companies and vaccine manufacturers, based on huge upswings in deaths as a result of the vaccines. The insurance companies have to pay out all those unexpected death claims.

But I want to form a clearer picture of your predictions about the financial collapse. I agree that The Great Reset is real. The powers-that-be fully intend to make it happen. A currency reset is one of their main objectives.

You seem to be saying that 2022 or 2023 is the year for the financial reset; and there will be much chaos and many riots. "Turbulence" would be a vast understatement.

So I'd like to see, in writing, the details on how you think this is going to play out.

For example, do you believe new sweeping lockdowns—blamed on "COVID"—will actually keep people in their homes and off the streets rioting—as they discover their savings and investments have been wiped out?

A new state of emergency amounting to martial law will be declared?

Government leaders will actually admit, publicly, that their debt is insupportable, and a new system must be put in place, NOW?

It would be valuable to read your fleshed-out scenario of the reset. Then we could SEE what might be in store for all of us.

The difference between an overall plan to wage war against the people and the battle strategy itself is enormous.

Looking at the strategy tends to wake people up.

"You mean they're going to do THAT? And if we respond with THIS, they'll do THAT...?"

Your position within the system gives you an important perspective. I hope to hear from you.
