

Fully Jabbed Actor Jak Knight ‘Suddenly’ Drops Dead – Doctors Baffled

Description

USA: Fully jabbed actor and comedian Jak Knight died “suddenly and unexpectedly” Thursday night in Los Angeles, leaving doctors baffled.

Knight was known for co-creating and starring in the comedy series “Bust Down.” Variety reported he had also just finished filming “First Time Female Director,” the feature directorial debut of Chelsea Peretti.

Thegatewaypundit.com reports: “Knight also played Devon on the hit animated Netflix series “Big Mouth” and was previously a writer on the show for five seasons. He also was a renowned stand-up comic and toured worldwide. He was featured in a 2018 Netflix special as part of “The Comedy Lineup” series,” the outlet added.

Many people have expressed their condolences and paid tribute to the young comedian.

Stand up is so fucked up because we surround ourselves with dope people that we never make an effort to see more often because we always assume we’ll see each other around. Jak Knight was such a force. I don’t know what to say. RIP.

RIP to Jak Knight. We taped Netflix specials together years ago. He was an incredibly funny original voice in comedy and a great guy who will be sorely missed.

I don't know what to say about Jak Knight that he wouldn't make fun of me for. But you were so incredibly loved and respected. There will never be anyone quite like you ?

Crushed by the passing of Jak Knight. Watch Bust Down NOW. I was lucky enough to spend years writing with and for Jak, and we taped our Netflix sets the same night. Such a fucking funny, surprising, kind, weird, singular talent. My heart goes out to his family and loved ones.
