

Game over in UK: Crown Prosecution Service announces it will no longer prosecute illegal migrants

Description

UK: Shattered, staggering, dhimmi Britain in free-fall.

“CPS blows hole in Priti Patel’s asylum seeker bill,” by Matt Dathan, The Times, July 9, 2021:

Priti Patel’s laws to crack down on asylum seekers crossing the Channel were dealt a blow yesterday when the Crown Prosecution Service said that it would no longer prosecute migrants.

An agreement struck between police, prosecutors, the National Crime Agency, Border Force and the Home Office over cases involving “illegal entry” will also apply to those arriving by lorry.

The CPS said that asylum seekers not involved in any criminal activity other than illegal entry should not be prosecuted because they could “usually be better dealt with by removal”.

The fresh guidance came two days after Patel, the home secretary, unveiled the Nationality and Borders Bill, which will create an offence for asylum seekers intercepted in the Channel without authorisation to enter the UK....
