

German Senate Votes To Censor Dramatic Spike in Heart Complaints and Strokes in 2021

Description

GERMANY: Almost two years after the Coronavirus jabs began in Germany, significant excess mortality and millions of cases of severe side effects are now being swept under the carpet by the media and politicians.

German SPD member of parliament Robert Schaddach inquired in March with a parliamentary question to the Senate's internal administration about the development of relevant fire brigade incidents that suggest adverse vaccination reactions.

Schaddach declared: "The aim of the question is to determine the development of the Berlin fire brigade's deployment figures with regard to heart complaints and strokes over the past four years."

Freewestmedia.com reports: The answer of the senate administration gives cause for concern. Under the headings of "Heart Complaints/Implanted Defibrillator" and "Chest Pain/Other Chest Complaints", the number of logged deployments in 2021 increased by 31 percent to a total of 43 806 deployments compared to the averages from 2018/2019. Similarly, the number of logged deployments under the keywords "Stroke/Transient Ischaemic (TIA) Attack" increased by 27 percent to a total of 13 096 deployments compared to the averages from 2018/2019.

However, the Berlin Senate Administration does not want to comment on this development. It writes evasively in its response of April 7: "Changes in the frequency of use of the main complaint protocols 'Heart complaints/Implanted defibrillator' as well as 'Chest pain/Other complaints in the chest' within the framework of the standardised emergency call query may be related to more intensive protocol use, the classification of symptoms, the further development of quality management, but also changes in the number of emergency rescue deployments, for example due to population growth or demographic change."

While the Berlin Senate administration is trying to keep the information out of the public eye, its response was received with all the more interest by the Feuerwehrgemeinschaft Berlin, an association of several hundred firefighters critical of vaccination. A spokesperson for the association explained: “Such rates of increase need to be explained.” He also said it was striking that the highest rates of increase are occurring precisely in the age groups that are not commonly understood to be vulnerable groups.

It is now necessary to “examine whether there is a causal connection here with the vaccination side effects caused by the Corona vaccine, which have increasingly come into the media spotlight”, according to the fire brigade community. It therefore “urges the management of the Berlin fire brigade to initiate a scientific and open-ended investigation of a possible connection in cooperation with the experts of the Robert Koch Institute (RKI) and the Paul Ehrlich Institute (PEI)”.

Until meaningful results are available, the “facility-based vaccination obligation”, which is still in force, must be suspended.
