

Is the US Military a Paper Tiger?

Description

USA: America is infested with Communist traitors like Joe Biden and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Mark Miley, above. His promotion of CRT and gender equality have nothing to do with human rights and everything to do with destroying military effectiveness.

There is no question that the globalist agenda is to destroy US dominance. The mandatory kill jab will finish the job. (A mandatory vaccine for a “pandemic” -re-branded flu- with a 00.15% death rate?)

Here, Anthony Migchels explains why Putin is contemptuous of US power, after the Afghan fiasco. (The US military is an Illuminati boondoggle, like the healthcare system.)

Below Migchels, Nicolas Chaillan, who recently quit as the Air Force cyber chief, says, “The Biden administration has made combating climate change and promoting transgenderism — not defending the homeland — the centerpiece of the nation’s military strategy.”

Putin dangerously confident

America is imploding.

The Petrodollar is dead. And their military edge is mostly gone.

In fact, Russia leads America on many important fundamental research directions, and operational technology.

Listen to Putin here.

He blames the US for scuttling the ABM treaty, which they did at the time to hysterically threaten Russia, even with first strike nuclear war.

And now they're a decade behind on hypersonic missiles, Russia is already launching them from all their platforms, America has a 900 km/h Tomahawk legacy system.

Russian aviation is world class, while the F-35 is a Trillion dollar hobby horse that they will not field against any Great Power competitor, because it simply has zero chance of survival.

The S-500 is incomparable to the worthless Patriot system, which has proved an utter failure throughout its miserable existence. Even the Houthis have zero problems with it.

The S4/500 systems are also not exactly water proof, and can still be by passed with missile swarms, but they're orders of magnitude better than anything the West has to offer.

It's also pretty clear the US and its British and Japanese allies cannot defend Taiwan.

Recently, the Western Coalition had an armada of four carriers, two US, and one British, one Japanese to prop up the last stronghold of Chinese Civilization.

I remember a similar situation almost 30 years ago. The US alone had four carriers there then, and they made a far greater impression as well.

The only reason China is not yet invading is because they know that even a few more years of patience will mean that the Western powers will be able to exact a far smaller price when the Communists take what they believe is theirs.

The Chinese Navy recently overtook the US as the biggest in the World, and they're launching ships at an amazing rate, and their capabilities are improving very rapidly.

Yes, the US Navy is still stronger, but it is very far from untouchable, as it once was.

Recently, a top US specialist on AI resigned, saying it was no use, as the US was already 20 years behind China. So that was also a big shock.

The threat that is dawning is a Sino-Russian attack.

The Chinese via the Pacific, the Russians via the Atlantic.

It's not 'imminent', but it's definitely on the horizon.
