

Jailed Pastor Fights On Knees: Chairman Trudeau Declares War On God And Freedom

Description

CANADA: On Monday, Canada's Maoist Chairman Justin Trudeau unleashed the Emergency Measures Act on the Canadian people in retaliation for the righteous siege of Ottawa by the Freedom Convoy.

The bill – which has never been used – is reserved for utilization under the condition that Canada is in a state of war; thanks to Trudeau and his divisive political tactics and policies, Canada is now literally a dictatorship.

Canadian law enforcement officers are not only overreaching their power onto the truckers; they are also arresting religious figures like Pastor Artur Pawlowski, who took a stand against the COVID and ideological tyranny, and has paid the price in time and persecution.

Pastor Artur has been quarreling with Canadian authorities since the beginning of the pandemic – now, he has been arrested and placed in solitary confinement.

On Tuesday, his son, Nathaniel Pawlowski, joined the Stew Peters Show, to expose the abuse his father is facing at the hands of Trudeau's jailhouse thugs.

"When he was in the bathroom, they ransacked his room looking for contraband," Nathaniel told Stew Peters. "They stole his Bible, they stole the letter he had written to his lawyer, and they placed him in what he described as like a dog kennel – it's basically a very thin, small cage – with very little air circulation, so I'm guessing it's like plexiglass; they placed him in there for hours on end!"

"Well this Castro, this Chairmen Trudeau here, he's the one that's inciting violence," Stew Peters told Nathaniel. "When this guy enacts the Emergency Powers – a wartime Act – he is going to signal that he is ready to go to war and crush these people and their families. That's going to turn into a civil war, and it can't end any other way except for really bloody – and he's the one that's responsible for this."

At the end of the interview, Nathaniel asked that there be political pressure placed on the Canadian government for what they are doing to his father, and the fellow Canadians.

“The United States is a powerhouse,” Nathaniel noted, while pointing out that Americans have the power to make a change in Canada against these draconian measures.

The Pawlowski family has intentions to pursue legal action against the governmental abuse Pastor Artur must bear. Yet, selflessly, they have prioritized calling for America to intervene on behalf of the Canadian people, not themselves. Will our leaders answer the call?
