

Kramatorsk as another Ukrainian provocation similar to Bucha. What do they need it for?

Description

UKRAINE: Another burning issue of the Ukrainian regime's atrocities has become the "Tochka-U" missile attack at the railway station in Kramatorsk, DPR region. Provocation of the Armed Forces of Ukraine with the death of civilians and the Tochka-U missile are another example of bloody Ukrainian schemes.

The footage from Kramatorsk makes it possible to determine by the shape of the missile's control rudders, that it was a Tochka-U complex, which is not in service with the Russian Federation Armed Forces since at least 2019. Instead, it has been actively used by the Armed Forces of Ukraine.

Judging by the location of the wreckage of the "Tochka-U", the shelling was conducted from the south-west side, from the territory controlled by the Armed Forces of Ukraine, Rybar Telegram channel writes.

It is of high probability that Ukrainian authorities decided to repeat the incident in Bucha, only on the territory of the Donetsk region.

This is not the first strike against civilians with the help of "Tochka U". Previously the Armed Forces of Ukraine used it against the city center of Donetsk. But of course, the Ukrainian media publish that it was a Russian Iskander missile that hit the Kramatorsk railway station.

Why was the railway station of the city chosen? "The human shield" mechanism is being implemented. In order to disrupt the evacuation of the city and use civilians as human shields, the Ukrainian regime sacrificed the lives of civilians.

The military tactics of Ukraine now comes down to hiding equipment and manpower in residential areas, any other scenario is the defeat of the Armed Forces of Ukraine in the shortest possible time.

We remind that “Tochka-U” is not in service with either the DPR or the Russian army.

“Therefore, it is obvious that this is a provocation similar to what happened in Bucha and it has specific political goals”, Vladislav Berdichevsky, deputy of the DPR parliament, told the reporters.

“Obviously, the “Tochka-U” attack on Kramatorsk was arranged for today's arrival to Kyiv of Ursula von der Leyen – Head of the European Commission, and the head of EU diplomacy, Josep Borrell. They use this as a background for negotiations and putting forward their demands on sanctions and arms supplies,” the MP said.

“This is a classic scheme of Zelensky’s media machine,” Berdichevsky explained.
