

Military Situation In Mariupol On March 21, 2022 (Map Update)

Description

The author of one of the main Russian-language YouTube channels on military issues was arrested in Riga (EU). European authorities want to accuse him of treason (!) because of the pro-Russian orientation of his videos. He is a private citizen.

History of Arms” has become one of the most patriotic YouTube channels for amateurs in recent weeks. Its author, Kirill Fyodorov, published analyzes of military operations there and made no secret of his pro-Russian stance. The videos became a trend and had millions of views, which did not please the EU authorities.

Cyril, who was a permanent resident of Latvia, decided to emigrate to Russia in view of the deteriorating foreign policy situation. In addition, since the beginning of the military operation, the blogger has received regular threats – he was compulsively suggested to shift the focus of his videos to anti-Russian content, otherwise he would face serious problems with the authorities. But on March 17, shortly before his departure, the state security authorities arrested him without any explanation directly at his parents’ home. He was not released after 48 hours, and his family and lawyer were threatened with trouble if they spoke to the Russian press. As Readovka learned, Fyodorov was arrested at the request of the European authorities in Latvia – he is accused of collaboration with Russia and is to be charged with high treason. In particular, he is accused of collaborating with the Russian secret service.

The situation is complicated by the fact that Fiodorov is a citizen of Latvia, and his relatives who are currently in Riga are under pressure – people are extremely scared and afraid to talk to anyone. It is clear that the European authorities will use this case to put pressure on those who support Russia in the media. In today’s Europe, unfortunately, there can no longer be two opinions on the question.
