

No one is safe: Vaccinated individuals can transmit graphene to the unvaccinated

Description

Biomedical Clinics Medical Director Dr. Philippe van Welbergen revealed that the graphene being injected into people is assembling and developing into larger fibers and structures, getting magnetic properties or an electrical charge. The fibers are also displaying indications of more complex structures with streaks.

He also showed that “shards” of graphene are being transmitted from vaccinated to unvaccinated people, and it is destroying the red blood cells and causing blood clots in the unvaccinated.

Van Welbergen was one of the first to warn the public of the damage the Wuhan coronavirus \(COVID-19\) injections was causing to people’s blood by publishing images last year of blood samples under the microscope.

In July 2021, Van Welbergen was interviewed on Loving Life TV, a South African community channel, and he explained that he took blood samples when his patients started complaining about chronic fatigue, dizziness, memory issues, paralysis and late onset of heavy menstruation from women 60 years old and up.

The patients’ blood showed unusual tube-like structures, some particles that lit up and numerous damaged cells. Van Welbergen said had never seen those blood formations before.

Last February 12, Van Welbergen appeared again on the Loving Life TV channel to show images of his newest slides of blood samples.

Blood slides show unvaccinated patients infected with vaccine toxins through shedding

Van Welbergen talked about nearly 100 blood slides from both vaccinated and unvaccinated patients. The slides showed that the unvaccinated patients had been “infected with vaccine toxins through shedding.” (Related: Fully vaccinated individuals are SHEDDING GRAPHENE and infecting the unvaccinated, causing serious health complications)

He also showed an image of normal healthy red blood cells as seen with a microscope where there is no coagulation or foreign objects in it. The biomedical doctor said that is what normal blood should look like.

Van Welbergen also showed an image of a person who has been injected with the experimental COVID jab. The blood was coagulated and the misshapen red blood cells were clumped together. The image also showed a few healthy red blood cells alongside the graphene fibers. The size difference between the graphene fibers in relation to the red blood cells can be seen.

The size of the graphene fibers can block capillaries. The image also showed that the graphene fibers are hollow and contain red blood cells.

“These strands or tubes appear to be hollow – it’s really odd. When you really expand it you can see some cells in it, but we don’t know if it’s a crystalline structure or organic. The few healthy cells are circled. The rest are cracked and fractured – they’re finished. That’s not healthy blood. We see it again and again,” said Van Welbergen, who is a highly qualified biomedical specialist in private practice.

Van Welbergen also began to notice a magnetic or electrical polarity effect on various sides of the graphene fibers. In one of the image, it showed a fiber along with cells that were coagulated.

According to Van Welbergen, this “behavior” was not seen before but it is now can be seen in almost every sample. He added that this is an indication that “these things have changed, their reaction with surrounding blood cells has changed ... and I don’t know what triggered it.”

Another image showed a blood sample from an unvaccinated three-year-old child that showed pieces or “shards” of graphene that “are the result of shedding,” which means that the graphene has been transmitted by the vaccinated parents to the unvaccinated child.

Another image showed a blood sample from an eight-year-old unvaccinated child whose blood had been contaminated and destroyed by the transmission of graphene from vaccinated people. The child’s right arm and upper right leg were basically paralyzed.

Van Welbergen’s presentation was truly an eye-opener and frightful at the same time but, it is a must-watch – especially for people who said that the COVID injections are “safe” and are insisting people be injected.
