

Pfertility Megathread: Study Funded By The NIH Finds That 40.2% Of Vaccinated Women Experienced Menstrual Changes

Description

Project Veritas released another breaking story last night featuring Pfizer executive Jordan Trishton Walker. This time, he was caught on camera openly admitting concern about women's cycles and their fertility. As a result, #Pfertility is trending on Twitter.

BREAKING: @Pfizer Director Concerned Over Women's Reproductive Health After COVID-19 Vaccinations

"There is something irregular about their menstrual cycles...concerning...The vaccine shouldn't be interfering with that...It has to be affecting something hormonal..." #Pfertility

According to a recent sperm study, injection of the mRNA vaccine harms the quality and motility of the sperm.

There was a 15.4% sperm concentration decrease, which led to a total motile count (TMC) reduction of 22.1% compared to pre-vaccination levels. pic.twitter.com/8EcpG8oPq7

Dr. Ryan Cole: "Not only could you be sterilizing your daughter, you could be ruining her heart, you could be inflaming her liver, you [could] be inflaming her brain, her adrenal glands, her spleen, her bone marrow. Children are at zero risk for COVID. Zero. Statistically zero." pic.twitter.com/Wf8rknhhvX
