

Place Where Biden Face Planted Off Bike Is Named 'Brandon Falls' On Google Maps

Description

USA: The place where Joe Biden face planted into the concrete falling off his bike last month has been named as 'Brandon Falls' on Google Maps.

Someone has managed to place a landmark in the Delaware location, naming it after the infamous 'Lets go Brandon' chant, which was initiated after the White House claimed Nascar fans were not chanting 'F*ck Joe Biden' when they totally were.

At time of writing, 'Brandon Falls' is still listed as a 'historical landmark' on Google Maps:

There is also a bicycle shop at Brandon Falls:

People have even left reviews of the place:

As we highlighted yesterday, people at Brandon Falls and beyond are reenacting the historical moment and labelling it #bidening or #BidenBikeChallenge:

That crosswalk should be a historic site at this point #bidening pic.twitter.com/3bw8k7b4PP

This will never get old.

President Joe Biden fell when he tried to get off his bike at the end of a ride Saturday at Cape Henlopen State Park near his beach home in Delaware, but wasn't hurt in the tumble.
