

Prepare: They Are Pushing The “Delta Variant” REALLY HARD Right Now

Description

Using fear-mongering terms such as “dangerous” and “concern” and “spreading rapidly”, the mainstream media continuing and ramping up their propaganda surrounding the “delta variant.” This looks like, at least on the surface, that it’s a ploy to get people to willingly take the experimental gene therapy shot.

COVID-19 mRNA Shots Are Legally Not Vaccines

“I’m worried about those who are unvaccinated,” United States Surgeon General Vivek Murthy told CNN Tuesday, noting the Delta variant “is rapidly increasing here in the United States.” The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention are saying this is a more “transmissible” form of the virus and can cause “more serious disease.”

“The second reason it’s concerning is that there is some data to indicate that it may in fact also be more dangerous, may cause more severe illness. That still needs to be understood more clearly, but these are two important concerns and they explain in part ... why this has become the dominant variant in the U.K., where over 90% of cases are the Delta variant,” Murthy said.

But the vaccine doesn’t “prevent transmission” and that much is admitted in the very same article. It lessens the chances that you will end up hospitalized:

Murthy said there isn’t enough data to indicate the effectiveness of Johnson & Johnson’s one-dose vaccine in regards to the Delta variant, but the vaccine has shown it can help prevent hospitalizations and deaths when people are infected with other strains.

A new study by Public Health England found that two doses of a coronavirus vaccine is “highly effective against hospitalization” caused by the Delta variant. The study found the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine is 96% effective against hospitalization after two doses. –CNN

Does anyone else find that strange that a “vaccine” is not providing immunity and it’s only effective against “hospitalization”? They do this with the flu shot every year too. They claim it will lessen symptoms but you could still get infected. That's not the definition of a "vaccine," which is supposed to force your body to create an immune response to prevent infection. This is why experimental gene therapy is the correct term.

Law Insider defines the term "vaccine" as: Vaccine means a specially prepared antigen which, upon administration to a person, will result in immunity.

If you can still get the disease, you are not immune. Immunity to hospitalization does not count according to the ruling class's own definition. There's no antigen in these shots either. They have mRNA and the "spiked protein."

The "Delta variant", which was first reported in India, currently accounts for nearly 10% of coronavirus cases in the US, according to the CDC.

"The key is get vaccinated, get both doses," Murthy said.

Maybe some would consider it if this was actually a vaccine. Another question to ponder, is if the unvaccinated are "domestic terrorists," why does anyone in the ruling class care if we take this shot? Shouldn't they want us all gone off the face of the Earth?

Politicians Say "Anti-Vaxxers" Are "Domestic Terrorists"

They keep saying the "vaccines" are effective against the "delta variant," so is this just a marketing plot to make sure everyone gets these shots? This is getting more and more absurd by the day and we are expected to just swallow what these psychopaths are saying and do what we are told. What are they really trying to accomplish here? There is something to this, and we know we are being lied to, but to what extent and how large of a part these "vaccines" play is still unknown.

Continue to use your own discernment, as always. Look into things and ask questions. The media is not going to tell us the truth and that should be apparent by now. Critical thinking is a long-lost skill that we should all be honing. Stay prepared for whatever you can. This is ramping up.
