

Russia has scalar technology weapons that can unleash massive destruction

Description

Russia has claimed that it has made a radical new weapons system that can render enemy satellites and weapons futile. According to Russian makers, it is a “fundamentally new electronic warfare system” that can be installed on ground-based, as well as air- and sea-borne, carriers.

The new electronic warfare system is said to be capable of quashing cruise missile and other high-precision weaponry guidance systems and satellite radio-electronic equipment. The system, which sounds like scalar type weaponry, can also target the enemy’s electronic means, military satellites and deck-based, tactical, long-range and strategic aircraft.

Applications in various warfare scenarios of scalar wave technology have long been known. A video titled “Secret Super Weapons That Drive Disarmament Negotiations-Lt. Col. Thomas Bearden” takes a deep look into the theory of scalar directed energy weapons and how it can be used against humans if Russia were to launch an attack against the United States.

What’s most concerning is its effects on nuclear weapons and radioactive materials, which can be catastrophic. Other factors of great importance is the possible use of the Russian HAARP-style “woodpecker” transmitter, which is said to have been partly responsible for the Chernobyl reactor failures. Ukraine disposed of all of its stocks of highly enriched uranium purportedly out of fear of Russia employing scalar weapons to have Ukraine’s own materials blow up and render the country radioactive for centuries.

Russians already using scalar weapons systems

Systems like satellite-based lasers, webs of listening devices and other non-specified new technologies for uncovering and identifying submarine locations already exist. In his lecture, Beard said the Russians have these kinds of technology using scalar weapons system.

This system was allegedly brought by former Soviet Navy Admiral Sergey Gorshkov, known as the father of the Soviet Ocean Fleet and the commander in chief of the Soviet Navy from 1956 to 1985. Gorshkov once claimed that “we have made the oceans of the world transparent.”

It must be noted that there are more claims to Russian advances in scalar weapons systems than just the information provided by Bearden.

The technology also means American missiles and bombers can be attacked on the ground or in the initial launch phases when they are still of low velocity to make them easy targets.

Bearden claimed an early test model of the scalar wave generator was used – instead of an anti-aircraft rocket – to bring down Gary Powers’ U2 spy plane.

There are several examples of documented sightings of probable scalar weapons activity, but nothing could be found from any web searches. This could mean that they are fake news, but could also mean that they are classified information and dangerous.

Bearden, a retired lieutenant colonel who works as a weapons analyst for an aerospace company, has been gathering reports of unexplained explosions such as a 1976 sighting in Afghanistan of “gigantic, expanding spheres of light” emanating from “deep within the Soviet Union.”

According to Bearden, one can make extremely powerful weapons by merging and concentrating electromagnetic and gravity waves. Bearden noted that this could very well be what former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was referring to 25 years ago when he announced the Russians had a fantastic weapon that could destroy life on Earth.
