

The Indoctrinators, Part 4: David Attenborough

Description

This is the last in our series about four well-known men whose purposeful social engineering over the years has undermined national democracies and economies, and created fertile ground for the final realisation of their post democracy dream of a global socialist/fascist world, controlled by supranational organisations such as the United Nations (UN), the World Health Organisation (WHO) and of course, themselves. They are George Soros , Klaus Schwab, Bill Gates and David Attenborough.

THE High Priest of the quasi-religious climate change cult, Sir David Attenborough, is arguably the most effective propagandist of our age. Britain's longest-serving broadcaster at 96, he is credited as writer, presenter, narrator or producer of a long sequence of extremely expensive BBC natural world documentaries. His unique career, which began soon after the birth of TV itself, has catapulted him into the ranks of the world's greatest Indoctrinators.

With limitless budgets (courtesy of the BBC licence fee-payer) and his undoubted communication gift (in Attenborough's programmes he invites you into the intimacy of his close-ups; it is you to whom he whispers) used to proclaim his doom-laden 'climate change' disinformation, Attenborough has not needed the wealth of George Soros, Klaus Schwab or Bill Gates. His position as one of the most trusted and respected of household names in Britain has endowed him with an extraordinary influence. After earlier series such as Life on Earth and The Trials of Life, his later works, increasingly coloured by climate angst and a determination to warn us that time is running out to 'save the planet', morphed into brilliantly filmed propaganda vehicles.

It is little wonder this national treasure and popular broadcasting 'environmentalist' became a darling of the United Nations and World Economic Forum, an admiration that is reciprocated. As early as 1982, he sycophantly told the UN how essential this (anti-Semitic and anti-West) organisation was in 'saving the natural world'. Forty years later, this 'special relationship' is still going strong.

Climate change and pandemic planning however have turned out to be demonstrably elitist 'causes' that have one set of rules for them and another for us. In 2021, while Britons were locked up at home, Attenborough had no problem with either spreading his carbon footprint or a killer virus in order to attend the G7 and COP26 summits along with his privileged globalist cronies. For his trouble, the UN named him the 'COP26 Peoples' Advocate', neglecting to clarify which people Attenborough advocates for – developing world dictators, his fellow Indoctrinators or the world's 'over-populated' poor, for whom cheap and available energy will, if he has his way, remain a pipe dream? Disseminating the UN's anti-science and anti-human 2030 Agenda for 'sustainable' development reaped its own rewards too. In 2022, Attenborough received the UN's 'Champion of the Earth Lifetime Achievement Award'.

The WEF could not have created a better spokesman for their mission. From their platform Attenborough lectures global elites on how to stop climate change. A eugenicist, neo-Malthusian dogma is never far below the surface. Humans take a distinctly secondary place in Attenborough's order of life. This goes down well at the WEF where he was honoured in 2019 with Hilde Schwab's Crystal Award and a shared stage with the Duke of Cambridge (now the Prince of Wales). Later the same year he was back at the WEF promoting 'a better kind of capitalism', aka digital slavery, along with the High Priestess of climate change, Greta Thunberg.

One of the most worrying aspects of the Indoctrinators' war on humanity is their terrorising of children into believing that the world is going to end because of climate change. A letter sent by Attenborough to a school in Dubai, congratulating them their efforts in 'saving the planet', was used to promote a Global Social Leader's schools' 'action project'. School children's belief that the world is going to end because of climate change, and their resultant climate anxiety, has been shown to have a seriously detrimental affect on their mental health.

His name is synonymous with the tarnished Worldwide Fund for Nature, another Davos acolyte and Agenda 2030 cheerleader. Fifty per cent funded by the unwitting British taxpayer along with Soros's Open Society Foundations, the WWF is worth millions. Despite promoting itself as an altruistic organisation with its cuddly panda logo, the WWF has an unsavoury record. It has funded, equipped, and worked directly with paramilitary forces accused of beating, torturing, sexually assaulting, and murdering scores of people. Attenborough remains both its ambassador and collaborator.

In 2020, with Netflix, Attenborough and the WWF launched Our Planet, a documentary laden with green evangelism, followed by the sequel, A Life On Our Planet, in cinemas across the globe. Lockdown victims watching Attenborough's histrionics could console themselves that they were being justly punished for their climate change 'sins'. His presence on the BBC continues unabated, insisting that we are all doomed for cataclysmic collapse unless 'dramatic action' is taken over climate change.

Those threatened with fines if they do not pay their BBC licence (and with imprisonment if they don't pay the fine) must surely be thrilled that their lives are being upended so that this fourth Indoctrinator retains a national platform from which he can preach his scaremongering prophecy of doomsday climate religion.

If Attenborough's repeated warnings of 'societal collapse' come even sooner than he predicts it won't be because of 'climate change', rather the result of the impracticable and destructive Net Zero agenda being imposed on the world by the Indoctrinator quad.

No one should be taken in by his saintly-sounding mantra 'save the planet'. These are the siren calls of a sinister apocalyptic cult of climate change, the vehicle through which an ever more powerful global elite will wrest power from the people and leave us at their mercy. The effects of this barbaric religion are already being felt as the world fast disintegrates into an Orwellian dystopian present. These self-appointed 'saviours' are our new feudal lords, fitting for the New Dark Age they are foisting upon us all.
