

The List Of Spies: These People Knew All Along And Lied

Description

USA: They knew about Hunter Biden;s laptop from hell and they didn't just keep secret – they kept lying.

The intelligence community's quick dismissal of the Hunter Biden laptop story as probable 'Russian disinformation' was designed to shield the Biden campaign from scrutiny over the highly relevant national security vulnerability.

"Despite the intelligence and law enforcement community spending four years sabotaging the Trump candidacy and presidency over a Russian collusion 'witch hunt' hatched by the Hillary Clinton campaign, a surveillance and investigative endeavor purportedly launched due to concerns about foreign election interference, it thus turns out America's own 'deep state' apparatus was the primary offender of election interference in the United States."

The New York Post's editorial board fired back at the mainstream media's smears using the IC's community's "disinformation."

"Big Tech, former government officials, and the media conspired together to bury a story," the editorial board said. "No, not just bury — create a false narrative that flipped the script to make Joe Biden the victim of a conspiracy. In short, they peddled online disinformation to sway an election."

"Do the officials who tried to flip the 2020 election feel any regret for their actions?" the board continued. "The Post reached out to those who signed the letter. Most would not answer the question. A few doubled-down, including Clapper. No remorse. No shame. And no apologies."

The list of former and current IC community officials who refuse to recant for the obvious disinformation campaign is impressive. It counts among its ranks some of the most influential and prominent senior intelligence officials, who have spent an inordinate and inappropriate amount of time on national airwaves opinionating and speculating on U.S. affairs.
