

Trans Swimmer Lia Thomas Nominated For NCAA's Woman Of The Year Award

Description

USA: Transgender swimmer Lia Thomas has been nominated by the University of Pennsylvania for the NCAA's 2022 "Woman of the Year" award.

Thomas, a biological male, was one of the 577 athletes nominated for the award which is meant to recognize female student-athletes.

"Each year, NCAA member schools are encouraged to celebrate their top graduating female student-athletes by nominating them for the NCAA Woman of the Year Award," the organization wrote in its press release.

Only last month the world swimming's governing body, FINA, effectively banned trans women, including Thomas, from competing in women's events.

Meanwhile many have taken to social media to air their outrage at UPenns decision.

Women at UPenn treated as second-class citizens. Hey every "feminist," your champions for equality have just been deposed & replaced with men and you will be punished if you point out this truth. What a gross turn in the name of "progress." Congrats on undermining your own cause. <https://t.co/OETYfy75XL>

— Jenna S (@JennaLynn88) July 15, 2022

UPenn must have forgotten that in order to qualify for the NCAA Woman of the Year award, one must actually be a woman.

There is nothing brave about competing against people whom you have a biological advantage over.

Shame on them for nominating Lia Thomas. pic.twitter.com/RNyEOGwLjs

— YAF (@yaf) July 15, 2022

The Gateway Pundit reports: Tom Fitton of Judicial Watch has criticized the University of Pennsylvania for nominating Lia Thomas, saying that it is a “direct attack on women.”

In May, Lia Thomas appeared on Good Morning America and said he should be allowed to compete with biological women in sports, saying he does not need “anyone’s permission.”

During the interview, Thomas stated that he is “no medical expert.” However, he said that some biological females have more testosterone, bigger hands and feet, and are taller than their competitors.

Thomas stated that he should not be banned from the competition with some women who are also bigger than others.

“I don’t need anybody’s permission to be myself,” Thomas said.

Earlier this year, Thomas’ teammates revealed that they feel uncomfortable. They said the trans swimmer doesn’t cover up [her] penis while in the locker room with girls.

‘It’s definitely awkward because Lia still has male body parts and is still attracted to women,’ one of Lia Thomas’ teammates told the Daily Mail in an exclusive interview.

It’s a disgrace that the NCAA and Penn have allowed this to happen. Women’s rights are definitely being violated.

by Niamh Harris

Category

1. Main
2. NWO-Deep State-Dictatorship-Tyrrany
3. Racism-Trans/Gender-LGBTQ+-Sex. crimes

Date Created

07/16/2022