The Pfizer vaccine has killed 109 children, whilst the Moderna vaccine has allegedly killed 16 children.

What's even more unfortunate is that these figures do not illustrate the true consequences of Covid-19 vaccination among children. This is because the CDC estimates just 1 to 10% of adverse events are actually reported to VAERS.

But what's even more unfortunate than that is the fact the FDA are about to vote on approving the Covid-19 injection for children as young as 6 months, and President Joe Biden already has an "operational plan" in place to ensure it happens.

FACT SHEET: Biden Administration Announces Operational Plan for COVID-19 Vaccinations for Children Under 5

JUNE 09, 2022 • STATEMENTS AND RELEASES

Driven by President Biden's comprehensive COVID-19 strategy, including a historic vaccination program that has gotten 220 million Americans fully vaccinated, over 100 million people a booster shot, and made vaccines free, widely available and convenient—daily COVID-19 deaths are down 90 percent since he took office.

COVID-19 vaccines remain the single-most important tool that we have to protect people against COVID-19 and its most serious outcomes. Next week, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) will consider whether to authorize and recommend the first COVID-19 vaccines for kids under the age of 5. If FDA authorizes and CDC recommends one or both of the COVID-19 vaccines for this age group, it would be a historic milestone in the nation's fight against the virus—and would mean nearly every American is eligible for the protection that vaccination provides.

Today, the Biden Administration is announcing an operational plan that will ensure that vaccines—if authorized by FDA and recommended by CDC—are readily available for our youngest kids and that we continue the critical work of ensuring that all families know the benefits of getting their children vaccinated against COVID-19.
